About Us

49 years ago Mel Stanislawski invented the triggerless backtension release aid. Ever since, his namesake company has been leading the way in release aid performance and technology.

New this year are heavy metal versions of our popular PerfeX™ platform release aids. Keep an eye out for more this year as we have a couple mid-year launches planned.

Our focus is and always has been on the customer experience from product form, fit and function to service after the sale and all things in between. If you're not completely satisfied, we're not either.

As always, thank you for your trust and confidence, we sincerely appreciate it.

* Aggressive sweep versions have "DS" label at the end of the handle name on the MOREX.
 † Available in Long Neck versions only.

We designed and patented the Trainer Lock<sup>TM</sup> to help archers get acclimated to shooting a hinge style release aid without fearing premature firing. In 2016 we added it across all product models in our line up.

It functions by interfering with the motion of the hook, but all other parts in the release move as intended so you can still adjust travel and tension settings.

Take extra shots on the practice line before competition, or you can just practice in your living room.

Always remember to nock an arrow and aim at an actual archery target as a safety precaution.

At Stanislawski, the perfect fit doesn't just refer to case sizes, finger counts, and trigger fit. A true perfect fit incorporates your mental game and allows seamless transition from one activation style to another.

The PerfeX platform offers an exact match regardless of the mechanism inside. Switching from a Thumb to a Resistance? No problem, you will enjoy the exact same fit, feel, and most importantly point of impact. Not close, EXACT.

It's called the PerfeX fit, and is at a dealer near you.

SX3 / shootoff!<sup>TL</sup>

Like the name implies, silkpath<sup>TM</sup> sears are silky smooth yet their enhanced and hardened 440C stainless steel construction makes them brutally tough.

They're finished with our proprietary polishing process and set in place by experienced craftsmen to ensure years of reliable service.

The hallmark of silkpath<sup>TM</sup> sears is their infinite adjustability. They offer a wide range of trigger travel and tension adjustability without having to fumble with changing any springs.

Both the SX3 and the shootoff!<sup>TL</sup> models are built around our silkpath<sup>TM</sup> sears and come in both medium and large sizes as well as three and four finger configurations. They also both incorporate our patented Trainer Lock<sup>TM</sup> technology

The shootoff!<sup>TL</sup> has a deep sweep to its handle while the SX3 has a straighter feel.

STAN'S® MOREX™ sears are the most advanced hinge based sears on the market offering an unmatched level of precision in the market pioneered by our namesake. The micro adjustable mechanism and two available clicker speeds (sold separately) make this the perfect backtension release for beginners and professionals alike.

Named after the sears themselves, the first release using them is the MOREX. It comes in both medium or large sizes and two, three, four, deep swept four, and straight handle configurations. Like all STAN'S®, it offers a fit and feel you won't forget through features like the removable pulling post that's fully adjustable for projection and angle.

Our patent pending Trainer Lock™ technology comes standard in the MOREX release line and offers a threaded hole in the handle to store the training pin. For those of you who still prefer a rope, the MOREX has a recess in the hinge to install a rope.

Resistance style releases operate by setting the release weight to your holding weight plus some differential. Once at full draw, activate the release, then add that differential weight and the release will fire.

It's a simpler way to shoot using backtension because there is no rotation involved, just squeeze with your back and it will fire. But resistance style release aids are the most difficult to design AND manufacture; succeeding here is what sets a premium manufacturer apart from the pack.

Like anything worth having, STAN's® Smokin' X™ sears were a long time coming. Theory alone will not result in a design that is repeatable. Only painstaking craftsmanship and revision after revision will get you there.

Whether you're shooting a light draw weight for indoors or a heavy 3D setup, the Element<sup>TL</sup> offers extreme repeatability with the reliability and consistency you can only find in a STAN®.
